THE LA FORTUNA MINES

Work on These Valuable Properties to be at Once Resumed.

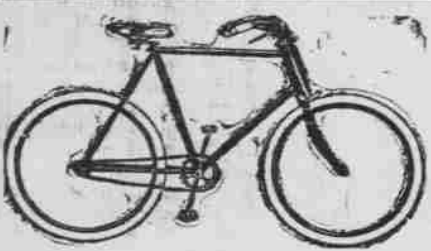

Mr. H. A. Howard of Los Angeles, who was recently appointed general manager of the La Fortuna mines situated at Agua Dulce, Lower California, returned a few days ago to Los Angeles. His visit is, however, but a flying one, as he will return to Lower California the early part of next week. He will take with him a force of men from Los Angeles to work on the La Fortuna properties, and while engaged in further development work on them will start up the mill on custom ore, there being several other good mines in that district near La Fortuna.

Speaking of the late trouble with the Mexican government (which is now all happily settled,) the San Diego Tribune of January 2 says: "L. A. Wright and H. A. Howard returned last night from overland from Agua Dulce, Lower California, where they have been for the past nine days taking possession of the mining properties belonging to the La Fortuna Mining company of New York City. These properties have been in the hands of the Mexican government since last June, when it was seized by reason of the company's manager, Gay Lombard, having clandestinely shipped $75,000 in gold bullion to avoid the payment of 3 per cent Mexican export duty."

"The government placed a heavy fine upon the company, and seized the property for payment. The company was in no way a party to Lombard's actions, and maintained they should recover the property upon the payment of regular duties and the costs to the government in seizing and holding the property."

After a thorough investigation the Mexican government made liberal concessions, and during this trip the money was deposited with the court awaiting orders from the City of Mexico, and H. A. Howard, who has been appointed manager of the mines, was placed in possession of the property."

"The company has a 10-stamp mill in operation and another 10-stamp mill on the ground ready to be erected, and well constructed buildings, including mill building, store building, boarding house, office, blacksmith shop, powder house and lodging house. Mr. Howard will at once revive the camp. The first work to be done after overhauling the mill will be to pump the water out of the Tesra mine, which is full to the 50-foot level. Until this is done the stamp mill will be operated with custom work, as there is considerable ore on the dumps at other mines in the district. The company has expended about $100,000 at this camp and has one of the most thoroughly equipped mining camps in Lower California. At one time 125 men were employed in these mines, although it has not yet been determined how large a force will be employed under Mr. Howard. Day and night shifts will be put on until the mines are free from water, and then the force will be increased. Mr. Howard was selected because of his thorough knowledge of mines and mining experience in Lower California, being at one time manager of the Cedros Island mines. He is also familiar with the Mexican ways of doing business and is sufficiently acquainted with their language to do business without an interpreter. His knowledge is a guarantee that the mines will not again be involved with the Mexican government. Mr. Howard hopes to be able to pay dividends within a very

MINING MEN AND MINES

Movements of Well-Known Operators of the Southwest.

H. A. Howard, general manager of La Fortuna mines, has left Los Angeles for Lower California.

W. D. McDougall has returned to California from South Africa.

H. C. Shekels, owner of the Crown King mine, Arizona, is at the Ramona in Los Angeles with his family.

John M. Mackey sent $500 on Christmas to the poor of Virginia City and Gold Hill, Nevada.

M. H. Twomey, until recently in charge of the mine work of the Commonwealth at Pearce, is now at Wilcox, Ariz., on a mining deal for San Francisco parties.

Charles Butters, Berkeley, Cal., is visiting La Colorado and Minas Prietas, Sonora, Mex., and exporting the ore tailings of those localities.

H. M. Russell of Los Angeles has gone to Lower California to visit some properties in which he is interested.

John Wilson, better known among the mining fraternity as "Quartz" Wilson, seriously if not fatally shot himself accidentally last Saturday at Twenty-nine Palms mining district in California.

The Yuma, Ariz., Sun, points a moral and adorns a tale when it says: "Too many mining men make the mistake of running their neighbor's property down. Such jealousy is short-sighted. What helps one mine helps the whole district in which it is located, and every individual should pull together for the good of the community."

Every mine in the Lake Michigan copper district is shipping copper by rail, which, says an exchange, has not been done before since the French syndicate cornered the copper and indicates a phenomenal demand for the metal at home and abroad.

Epes Randolph and E. S. Ives have purchased C. E. Eichelberger's interest in the King of Arizona mine. The consideration was not made public. Preparations are being made to work the mine on a large scale. Mr. Eichelberger was the discoverer of the mine two years ago. His partner, Gleason, sold to Messrs. Randolph and Ives his interest for $100,000.

PRINCE FRANZ VON AUERSPERG.

Prince Franz Von Auersperg's many Austrian creditors have been most agreeably surprised by the receipt from Brooklyn, N. Y., of a printed communication to the effect that he is returning to Vienna in March or April next, when he will pay them in full his debts of long standing, which exceed 60,000 florins ($291,000). He writes that he has taken the degree of doctor of medicine in an American college. To one of his Vienna creditors, Herr Johann Mueller, the prince is very communicative, and favors him with a chatty letter, in which he says that none of his creditors shall suffer on his account. He has turned over a new leaf and has devoted the last two years to hard study, and, having obtained, as the result of his labors, a doctor's degree, he, together with a wealthy friend and colleague, is about to open a sanitarium in Brooklyn. He says his friend will advance him the sum needed to settle with his creditors.

When Vienna became too hot for the profligate prince—for he was a mere boy at the time—he escaped his creditors and made straight for New York, where he put his shoulder to the wheel and roughed it with a will and a vengeance. Driven to extremes, he earned an honest penny by running an elevator for a time, and later developed into a full fledged waiter in a beer saloon. Scraps of news regarding him appeared from time to time in the Vienna papers, but nothing authentic was positively known to the public at large, while his been companions, blue blooded and bloodless—of former days, feigned ignorance. Prince Franz is a scion of one of the most noble and distinguished houses of the ancient Austrian feudal aristocracy. For centuries, reaching back into the twilight of history, the Auerspergs have distinguished themselves pre-eminently in the legislative chamber and in the field.
